PREFATORY REMARKS.

In offering this, the Revised and Enlarged Edition of Gospel Melodies to the public, we confidently believe that the many excellent features of the work will recommend it to all who love good, pure words, and music adapted totheir expression.

We call attention to the excellent typography-the large, clear print, with the words printed between the music staves, so that both words and music may be seen at the same time.

An index of subjects is an important feature of the book, as by reference to it the leader may promptly find appropriate words for the different parts of the public worship-songs for opening service, closing service, invitation songs, etc. It must not be inferred, however, that the songs under the heads, "Invitation,' ''Opening,' etc., cannot be used on other occasions. These subject headings in the index simply show that the songs under the heads, "Invitation," "Opening,' etc., are certainly appropriate for these occasions, while some of them may be used in other parts of the worship, as well.

Another important feature of the book is the very brief, practical treatize on the subject of learning to sing by note, as found in the thirteen pages of rudiments. This is prepared by a teacher of experience, and will recommend Gospel Melodies to the wide-awake teacher and leader in singing as a good class book.

The 'Supplement', contains a large number of the very best old, standard songs, without which any book designed for use in public worship must seem incomplete.

We acknowledge our gratitude to all our contributors, and would especially thank Dr. H. R. Palmer, A. S. Kieffer and Chas. Edward Pollock for courtesies shown us.

All compositions by the authors are copyrighted, and must not be used by publishers withont permission.

The authora have earnemtly endenvored to make this book worthy the patronage of the public, and we send it forth with the sincere prayer that it may be the means of edifying and cheering thousands of men, women and children, who may sing the psalms, hymns and spiritual songs it contains.

1. When the bil-lows roll the high-est, When they rock the might-y deep,
2. When life's trials all are ov-ver, And our earth-ly course is run,
3. When the clouds have rolled their curtains, From the far and distant shore,
 We'll be-hold a gold-en ha-lo, In the set-ting of the sun.

When the clouds be-gin to low-er, And ob-scure the pleasant sky, Yea, when death has op'd its portals Of the grave, and we must die, We will rest with God for-ev-er, In the land so bright and fair,

Don't despond, for Je - sus tells you To be cheer-ful, "it is I." Then be look-ing for the Sav-ior, For His com-ing bye and bye. All our friends will know each other, Yes, we'll know each oth-er there.

When the writer, some ten years ago, moved to the historic battle-field of Sherman Heights, Tenn., the whole surrouudings were, comparatively, in woods. We began "clearing" away the underwood and "hewing" some logs for framing in our new house. This work brought back to my mind the scenes of forty years ago, and I could see father standing and hear him calling to the workmen, "Boys, hew to the line." He is sleeping in the grave, but I can never forget the lessons he taught.

2 Sweet fields, beyond the swelling flood, 30 could we make our doubts removeStand dress'd in living green;
So to the Jews old Canaan stood,
While Jordan roll'd between.
But tim'rous mortals start and shrink
To crose this narrow sea,
And linger, shiv'ring, on the brink, And fear to launch away. Those gloomy doubts that rise-
And see the Canaan that we love, With unbeclouded eyes;

RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

Copyrighted 1893, by W. T. Tomson.

CHAPTER I.

The subject of music is naturally divided into the three departments called Rhythmics, Melodics, and Dynamics.

Rhythmics treats of the length of tones.-
Melodics treats of the pitch (highness and lowness) of tones.
Dynamics treats of the power (loudness and softness) of tones.

RHYTHMICS.

The relative length of tones is represented by Notes:

Their relative value is implied by the names of the different kinds of notes. (A half note requires half as much time as a whole note, a quarter one-fourth, etc.)

Characters representing silence are called Rests:

Rests have a corresponding value in time with notes, except that the whole rest is used to fill an entire measure.

The dot after a note or rest increases its value one-half. Examples:

\rho \cdot \text { equals } \rho \rho \quad \rho^{\circ} \text { equals } \theta \rho \rho

The stress which occurs regularly in music is called Accent, and divides the music into Measures.

The different kinds of measures are designated by figures, of which the following are in common use, for vocal music:

- The upper figure shows the number of counts (parts) in a measure, and the lower figure shows the kind of note that makes the time of a count. In each of the above kinds of measures, one count note is sung to each beat.

In the following examples the beats, (down, left, right, and up,) are abbreviated, d, l, r, u.

EXAMPLES.

Other kinds of measures in common use :

Nine-part,

Twelve-part.

In each of the above kinds of measures three of the count notes are sung to each beat.

EXAMPLES.

Two, three, and four-part measures have each a strong accent on the first beat, and four.part has a slight accent on the third beat.

In six, nine, and twelve-part measure, the first note of each beat is accented.

Staff.

Vertical lines across the staff $\exists$ called bars, indicate the boundaries of measures*

A heavy bar shows the end of a strain or the end of a line of words, and is called an DOUBLE BAR.

Two double bars together, 7 show the end of a composition, and are called a close.

CEAPTER II.

MELODICS.
The names of ABSOLUTE PITCH of tones are A, B, C, D, E, F, G, (as primary, ) and $A_{h}^{\psi}$, (read A sharp,) $A k$, (A flat,) $B b, C_{k}^{*}, D, * \& c$.

The seven primary tones are represented on a STAFF by a cleff as follows:

Each line ard each space of the staff is called a Degree, and represents a pitch-first line represents the pitch E , first space F, &c.

Pitches also have the following Relative names: one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight; sharp one, sharp two, flat three, &c. These relative pitches have also Syllable names : Dō, Re, Mī, Fä, Sōl, Lä, Sï, and these are the names used for practice in learning to sing.

The seven relative pitches indicated by the syllable names (Do, Re, Mi, \&c., ) constitute a Key-scale, or key-family. The first one (Do,) is called the Key-tone. The names of the other syllables ( $\mathrm{Re}, \mathrm{Mi}, \mathrm{Fa}$, \&c., ) are known by the relation they sustain (upon the staff,) to the Key-tone. Thus, when Do (1) is on a line, $\operatorname{Re}(2)$ is on the next space above, and $M i(3)$ is on the next line above; but when $\operatorname{Do}(1)$ is on a space, $\operatorname{Re}(2)$ is on the next line above, \&c.

EXAMPLES.

Since the syllable names of notes suggest their relative pitch, it is necessary to be perfectly familiar with these syllable names, and with the relative pitch of the tones of the Key-scale.

HOW TO LEARN.

The first thing to do is to learn to sing the scale, as a whole. This can only be done by hearing it sung, or by playing the absolute pitches on a piano or organ in the following order:

As soon as the pupil can sing the foregoing key-scale correctly, he should practice the exercises in Melodics commencing on page in.

CRAPTER III.

Since only the Letter Names (C, D, E, &c.) represent absolute pitch, it follows that any absolute pitch (any letter-any degree of the staff) may have the relative name, Do. It is therefore necessary to know when the pitch $C$ is Do, and when the pitch $D$ is Do, &c. Hence the following

RULES.
I. Learn the pitch names of the degrees (lines and spaces) of the staff.

2. When no sharps ( $\left.{ }^{( }\right)$) or flats (k) are used as a Signature (sign) of the key, the key letter is always $C$, and Do ( $\mathbf{1}$ ) is always on the key letter. (In key of C , it is added line below, and third space; in the key of D , it is space below, and fourth line, \&c.)

When sharps are used as a signature, determine the key letter by the following sentence, taking the first letter of each word as the key letter, for the corresponding number of sharps:

(One sharp, G; two, D; three, A, \&c. All keys having sharps for a signature are "letter keys,' except $\mathrm{F}_{\text {\% }}$-six sharps.

For keys having flats for a signature, use the following sentence :

| Prank | Brown | Eate  bth | Apple bobop | Dumplungs bobp | Grèedilly. bepobtes |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | b | D加 | bope | bobon |  |

(One flat, F; two, Bk; three, Eb, &c. All keys having flats for signature are "flat keys," except F, one flat.)

CEAPTER IT.

Three kinds of cleffs are used to locate the pitch names (letters) on the staff, and to show the kind of voices which sing each part.

The G or Treble Clef line below) and is used

The C, or Tenor Cleff +4 locates $\mathbf{C}$ on the third space, and is used for the Tenor part.

The $F$, or Bass Cleff locates F on the fourth line, ( C on the second space, ) and is used for ${ }^{-1}$ the Bass part. It is also used for the Tenor, when two parts are writ- - ten on the staff. The pitch names of the Bass staff are

In learning to read notes it is best to group them into line notes and space potes. When Do ( 1 ) is on a line, Mi (3), Sol (5), and Si (7) are on lines above, and $\operatorname{Re}(2), \mathrm{Fa}(4)$, and $\mathrm{La}(6)$ on spaces. When $\mathrm{Do}(1)$ is on a space, Mi (3), Sol (5), and Si (7) are on spaces above, and $\operatorname{Re}(2)$, Fa (4), and La (6) on lines above. Following are examples in all the Major Keys.

EXAMPLES.

CRAPTER V.

HOW TO GET THE PITCH OF, THE KEY NOTE.

The pitch of the key note (Do) in the key of $C$, is about the pitch of the low tones of the voice, in common conversation. The pupil should have a C-tuning fork, however, and establish the exact pitch. Since the pitches C, D, E, F, \&c. are absolute, they are the same in all keys. Therefore, the syllable $\operatorname{Re}($ pitch $D$, ) in the key of $C$, is the same pitch as the syllable $D o$ in the key of $D$. The syllable $M i$ (pitch $E$,) in the key of C , is the same as $D o$ in the key of $E, \& \mathrm{cc}$. Therefore, to get the pitch of Do (1) in the key of $D$, sing to $\operatorname{Re}(2)$ in the key of $C$, dwell upon the tone a moment, then change its name to Do, without changing its pitch. For the key of $E$, sing to $M i$ and change name to Do. Proceed in like manner for the keys of $\mathrm{F}, \mathrm{G}, \mathrm{A}$, and B , as shown by the following :

DIAGRAM.

To get the pitch of. Do (1) in "flat keys," (B2, Ek, \&c.,) change the name of the syllable next below the desired key letter to $\mathrm{Si},(7)$, and then "sing up" to Do, (8), above. For the key of Dh, change Do (i) in the key of $C$, to the syllable $\mathrm{Si}(7)$, and then sing Do (8). For the key of Ek , change $\operatorname{Re}(2)$ in the key of $C$, to the syllable $S i(7)$, \&c., according to the following:

DIAGRAM FOR "FLAT KEYS."

Do (1) in key of C, equals Si (7), in key of Dtz . $\operatorname{Re}$ (2) equals $\mathrm{Si}(7)$, in key of $E k$, \&c. (The pitch of the key note in the keys of $\mathrm{F}_{\text {H }}$ and G 2 is the same-midway between F and G .)

A shorter method of finding the pitch of the key note in "flat keys," is to change the name of the pitch C, (given by a C tuning-fork,) to its proper relative name (syllable name, ) in the desired key. Do (i) in the key of C, equals Sol (5) in the key of $F, & c$., as shown by the following:

DIAGRAM.

CHAPTER VI.
DYNAMICS.
The Power (loudness and softness,) with which a passage is to be sung, depends mainly upon the character of the words. Good judgment, and an entering into the spirit of the zords, will direct the singer in this department. There are, however, some words and abbreviations used, which are given in the following table, among other words and abbreviations. Those which pertain to loudness and softress, are dynamic words and signs.

DEFINITIONS OF MUSICAL TERMS.

$A$, or $a$,-And, by, for.
Accelerando-Faster and faster.
Adagio-Very slow.
Ad Libitum, or Ad Lib-At pleasure.
Allegro-A quick movement.
Allegretto-Less quick than allegro.
Andante-Slow and sedate.
A tempo-In the regular time.
Colahdo-Diminish and retard.
Con-With.
Con Espressione-With expression.
Con Spirito-With spirit.
Crescendo, or cres. or -Gradually increasing the power.
Dolce-Soft and sweet.
Da Capo, or D. C.-Go to the beginning.
Dal Segeno, or D. S.-Go to the sign (j).
Diminuendo or dim. or $工$-Gradually diminishing the power.
Fine-End.
Finale-Final movement.
Forte, or $f$-Loud.
Fortissimo, or ff-Very loud.
Largo-A slow movement.
Larghetto-Not so slow as largo.
Legato-Smooth and connected.

Molto-Much, or very.
Mezzo-Medium power.
Marcato-Short and marked.
Moderato-Moderate movement.
Presto-Quick.
Prestissimo-Very quick.
Primo-First.
Piano or p-Soft.
Pianissimo, or pp-Very soft.
Ralentando, or Rall.-Gradually slower and softer.
Ritardando, or rit-Slower and slower.
Sforzando or sf or $>$ - Explosive.
Staccato or '-Very short.
Swell or -Increase and di. minish.
Trio-Three parts.
7 riplet-Three notes in the time of two of the same kind.
Velace-Rapidly.
Vivace-Quick and lively.
Vigoroso-Boldly.
n Hold or Prolong-Shows that the note above or below it is to be sustained beyond its rhythmical value.

EXERCISES IN RETYTHMICS.

In practicing the following exercises, fisst count the time, then sing, using the syllable La for each note. Whether countiug or singing, always beat the time. (The beats are indicated above the notes, the counts below.)

In counting, use the word and for notes which require half a beat, speak. ing the and sor quickly that the numbers ( $1,2,3$, etc.,) may be spoken at regular intervals, just as they are when no and is spoken.

The exercises with the counts and beats marked, are models by which all exercises or songs, with the same time signature are to be practiced.

TWO-PART MEASURE.

Two counts in each full measure, (shown by the upper figure in the time signature, ${ }^{\circ}$ and a half note (d) is a count note, (shown by lower figure.)

Two beats to a measure. A quarter note ( $d$ ) is a count note.

The first beat in each full measure is always downward. If a song begins with an incomplete measure, beat so that the hand shall fall for the first beat of the next measure. Always accent the downward beat.

Do not speak the count for a rest. Think, only.

FOUR-PART MEASURE.
Give the first beat of each measure a strong accent and the third beat a slight accent.

Notes of less value than half a beat are often used. Two sixteenths are lung in the time of one eighth.

THREE-PART MEASURE.

SIX-PART MEASURE.

NINE-PART MEASURE.

$7,8,9,1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8$ and $9,1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8$ and $9,1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8,9,1,2,3,4,5,6$.

TWELVE-PART MEASURE.
Twelve part measure is "two times" six part. Count 12, or 6, twice.

EXERCISES IN MELODICS.

The pupil should practice the following exercises in regular order, until he can readily sing the correct pitch, as soon as the pitch name of a note is determined. These exercises are not designed to teach note reading, particularly. He who can sing these correctly, can as readily sing similar exercises in any and all keys, since the pitch names (Do, Re, Mi, &c.,) suggest relative pitches alike in all keys. For practice in note reading, use any of the songs in this book.

Always begin the practice of these exercises by singing the C scale, at least three or four times in succession.

Give special notice to notes marked $\#$, as they are on pitches to which you return after the regular scale order, (ascending or descending) has been broken. In No. I sing slowly from 1 (Do) to $3(\mathrm{Mi})$, then return to 1, (Do), being very careful to give 2 (Re) the same pitch each time. In the third measure sing to 3, (Mi), think of the pitch 2, (Re), but do not sing $i t$, then sing $\mathbf{~}$, (Do). The quarter rest is inserted where skips in the notation occur, and shows where the pitches are to be thought of, but not sung.

No. 3.

No. 4.

No. 5.

In No. 6, the pupil may find it difficult to return to the pitch 6, (La), after having sung 7 (Si). Sing very slow, fixing the pitch 6 (La) well in the mind, so that it may be repeated after 7 (Si).

No. 6.

In the following exercises the rest is not used to show the places where intermediate pitches are omitted. The pupil should now be able to omit a pitch whenever the pitch name is omitted.

No. 8.

No. 9.

The following two exercises are written in the key of G. Remember that the pitch $G$ (second line) has the syllable name $D o_{0}$. The method of getting the pitch of the key note is illustrated in Nos. 10 and 12.
